

Financial Planning for Education

At MCC, we believe money should never get in the way of education.

Investing in a college education can be a major financial decision and many students need to look beyond their own limited resources for assistance.

A Mohave Community College education can be exciting and rewarding, especially if achieved through a partnership. The partners in financing an education include the student/family contribution, the government, through grants and loans, the college through a convenient tuition payment plan and work-study jobs, and the private sector, through scholarships.

The Tuition Payment Plan will allow you to pay tuition in installments that are spread over several months, depending on when you register. Payments can be made online from your checking or savings account or by credit card.

You can apply for Federal Grants to help you with college expenses. Your family's financial circumstances determine your eligibility and the amount you can receive.

Loans help you pay your way, but must be repaid. Loans are backed by the Federal Government and interest rates may be subsidized to keep them below general market rates.

Many organizations offer private Scholarships, including fraternal societies, unions, business and social organizations, foundations, high schools, and religious groups. Most of these private scholarships require that you meet organization-specific criteria to qualify.

The federal Work-Study program provides students with part-time employment. Students work 20 hours per week or less and may work on campus in a variety of areas.

The question all students ask: How am I going to pay for college?

At MCC, we think nothing should stand in your way.
